

CORPORATE AND BUSINESS

Running a business is more than a full-time job. Ever-changing regulations. Confusing laws. OSHA on your doorstep. With so many legal matters to keep up with, finding the time to run the nuts-and-bolts part of a business can be challenging.

Critchfield's corporate and business attorneys understand the intricacies of business ownership, including company formation and business planning, mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance, taxation, executive compensation, and pension and profit-sharing. We also counsel clients on employee-related matters, including employee handbooks, benefits, human resources, regulatory compliance, as well as OSHA and workers' compensation. Critchfield's attorneys are also able to assist with the creation and review of contracts for new products and services, trademark and copyright matters, as well as handle collections and business-related litigation.

No matter what a business's size or industry, Critchfield's attorneys are there to simplify the complex, provide guidance, and offer sophisticated solutions.
